3rd Wave Consulting Announces Return to Executive Consulting

VA, July 14, 2009: After building a solid reputation in technology consulting, 3rd Wave Consulting Services, LLC has announced a return to the field of services in which it first began – executive, leadership, and management consulting.

“We won’t be leaving technology consulting altogether,” said 3rd Wave’s President Michael Conwell. “It’s still one of our offerings, however, the majority of 3rd Wave’s energy and resources will be focused on executive and leadership consulting.”

3rd Wave’s consultancies include: executive and operation management, executive and management consulting, Six Sigma, Balance Score Card, project management rescue, business process reengineering (BPR), knowledge management, and program management.

Conwell also stated, “I’m excited about the renewed focus because it really takes full advantage of the skills set and experience that 3rd Wave has to offer.”

3rd Wave’s consultants encompass a breadth of knowledge and experience. Professional qualifications include MBAs, PMP (Project Management Professional) credentials, and Six Sigma Black Belt Certified professionals.
